

New York Times - May 26, 2004

FOOD STUFF; Mixing Burgers And Bogeys

By Florence Fabricant

To keep your golf game in top form, you can now practice putting on a 14-foot swath of artificial turf (by DeShayes Dream Greens) at Grand Central Terminal during a lunch break or at cocktail time.

It has been set up at the outdoor cafe for Michael Jordan's: The Steak House N.Y.C., protected under the arches along Vanderbilt Avenue at 43rd Street. Anytime while having lunch or drinks, duffers can pick up a putter, or enter a putting contest for prizes.

A menu of fried shrimp, lobster rolls, hamburgers, hot dogs, sandwiches and steaks is served at the cafe.